The Society for Musicology in Ireland and the Irish National Committee of the International Council for Traditional Music are pleased to announce a joint postgraduate conference to take place at Dublin City University on Friday 14 and Saturday 15 January 2022.

The conference committee warmly invites postgraduate students working in all areas of musical research to submit proposals for 20-minute papers or 30-minute lecture recitals. Poster presentations are also welcome. Areas of research include, but are not limited to, historical musicology, ethnomusicology, music theory and analysis, music technology, music pedagogy, popular music studies, musical practice as research, psychology of music, and music and gender. Master's students are encouraged to submit proposals for 10-minute papers.

The 2022 conference will feature a keynote address from Dr Áine Mangaoang (University of Oslo) and the presentation of the biennial Alison Dunlop Graduate Prize. As with previous SMI/ICTM-IE postgraduate conferences, the programme will also include a Careers Forum and a dedicated session featuring prizewinners of the annual CHMHE competition for undergraduate dissertations.

Restrictions permitting, the conference committee is planning for a blended format across the two days. Friday 14th will feature both in-person and virtual sessions. Saturday 15th will be held solely in-person at Dublin City University.

As this is the first campus-based conference for ICTM Ireland and the SMI since early 2020, participants based in Ireland and Northern Ireland are encouraged to attend in person, as far as is safe and possible. For participants who wish to present but cannot travel there will be the option to present via Zoom.

To submit a proposal, please send an email attachment (.doc or .docx, not .pdf) to smiictm2022@gmail.com by Monday 29 November 2021 with the following details:

- Title of Paper
- Abstract (max. 250 words)
- Full Name, Contact Details and Institutional Affiliation
- Short Biography (max. 150 words)
- Please state whether you will be presenting a:
 - 20-minute paper
 - 30-minute lecture-recital
 - 30-minute films, audio or other media presentations (to include introduction and any commentary)
 - 10-minute presentation (Master's Students)
 - Poster presentation
- Preferred presentation method (in-person or online)

Please submit all information in a single Word document. Proposals will be anonymised prior to peer review and applicants will be notified of the outcome of this process by Friday 3 December 2021.

We very much look forward to your attendance and participation.
